OpenOffice Calc Import Multiple ODS Files Software Download Link: Free DownloadFormer President George W. Bush is reportedly working on a biography and the book's publisher is approaching publishers in an effort to get Bush's son, President George W. Bush, to help secure the release of the memoir, the New York Post reported Friday. The Washington Examiner first reported in April that Trump had been asked to write a Bush biography, though Trump has denied the request and said the whole idea was absurd. The Daily Caller News Foundation previously reported in May that Trump's daughter, Ivanka Trump, was interested in serving as an adviser to her father. Trump is considering bringing on Ivanka Trump as an adviser to his administration. The Washington Examiner reported in May that Trump had been asked to write a Bush biography, but that he had turned down the opportunity. "He doesn't think he's qualified," Trump said. The interview was reported Friday by the New York Post. The Washington Examiner reported that the publisher wants Bush to testify about what he says was his role in the intelligence community in relation to the 2004 presidential election. The former president has reportedly told multiple people that his job was to protect the country and he was not involved in the alleged Bush-Gore conspiracy to keep the election close. The publisher of the book, Lee Atwater, has not responded to multiple requests for comment. Bush's memoir, "41: A Portrait of My Father," is reportedly due out in early 2017. Read the New York Post report: Former President George W. Bush is working on a Bush biography that will revolve around the Iraq War and his father's presidency, according to a senior publisher at a major New York publisher.
